

Schoolhouse Rock Live! Junior Audition

Don't forget that English isn't the first language of many of your new students. You have a lot of different students from other countries and cultures. You are going to be very important in their transition to America. That's what's so exciting. You have as much to learn from them as they have to learn from you. That's one of the great things about growing up in the United States.